Schumacher's Art to Hang in U.S. Capitol

Logan Schumacher '25 won the Congressional Art Competition and his artwork, a colored pencil and micron pen drawing titled "Far from Perfect," will hang in the United States Capitol to represent the 5th Congressional District of South Carolina.

Liz Singkhonket '26 placed second in the competition with her colored pencil drawing titled "Still Life."

Each spring a nation-wide high school arts competition is sponsored by the members of the U.S. House of Representatives. This competition, open to high school students, is an opportunity to recognize and encourage the artistic talent in the nation.

The overall winner of each district's competition will be displayed for one year in the U.S. Capitol. Logan will attend the winner's celebration and reception in Washington, D.C., in June. He is a student in the Drawing III class taught by Ms. Tara Breslin-Schumacher. He is the third Wilson Hall student in the past four years to win this competition.

Eighth Grade Visits Washington, D.C.

Filling two chartered buses, the eighth grade students and their parents and chaperones departed for the Washington, D.C., area on May 4 for a five-day trip. After visiting George Washington's home at Mount Vernon, the group spent two full days sightseeing in the city and the surrounding area, visiting such points of interest as the Library of Congress, National Cathedral, White House, Union Terminal and Washington Monument. They also visited Arlington National Cemetery, where they witnessed a Revolutionary War reenactment, and the Jefferson, Vietnam War and World War II Memorials, as well as Ford's Theater and the National Archives. The group visited the Smithsonian's Air & Space, Natural History, and American History Museums and the Holocaust Museum. They enjoyed an evening tour of the city which included the illuminated Korean War, Lincoln, Franklin Roosevelt, and Martin Luther King Jr. Memorials. The group enjoyed game nights at the hotel and some went to a Washington Nationals baseball game. The trip was led by the students' history teacher, Mrs. Lori Brown, who received assistance in planning by Mrs. Kathy Smith Coker '98.

Seventh Grade Travels to Charleston

In conjunction with their history and science classes, the seventh grade students visited Charleston County from May 2-4. Students and chaperones spent two nights on the historic USS Yorktown, a decommissioned aircraft carrier anchored at Patriots Point Naval & Maritime Museum in Mount Pleasant. While onboard they heard stories of heroism and experienced behind the scenes of the World War II aircraft carrier. The students also toured a retired destroyer and a submarine, as well as the Vietnam Experience Exhibit. The group toured Charles Towne Landing State Historic Site and took a boat ride to Fort Sumter National Historic Park in Charleston Harbor. Spending a day on a boat tour with Barrier Island Eco-Tours, students visited Capers Island to learn about botany, ecology and marine biology. They explored tidal creeks of the salt marsh, a maritime forest, a dune field, and a "bone-yard beach." The trip was coordinated by Mrs. Molly McDuffie and the other chaperones were Mr. George Caruth '06, Mr. Lee Gandy, Mr. Sam Harrelson, and Mrs. Susie Herlong.

Lower School Chorus Concert

Directed by Mrs. Julia Sims-Owens, the Lower School Afternoon Chorus performed a spring concert in the Founders Chapel on May 2. The concert featured religious songs such as the traditional spiritual "Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel" and "The Blessing" by Brown, Carnes and Furtick, as well as the Hebrew "Shalom" by Jennings. The chorus also sang the inspirational ballad "Born to Be Somebody" by Warren and the upbeat "Make a Little Music" by Beck and "Always Sing Your Song" by Johnson. Composed of fourth and fifth grade students who audition to become a member, the chorus is an extracurricular activity that rehearses after school once a week. Mrs. Yvonne Wilkes was the accompanist for the concert.

Mr. Eddie Talley, Head of Lower School, thanks Mrs. Julia Sims-Owens and the chorus for their performance.
